Bond Laboratories' Executives Conduct Second Exclusive Interview with 'The Green Baron Report'

Nov. 5, 2009 (Business Wire) -- Bond Laboratories Inc. (OTC Bulletin Board: BNLB), a leading manufacturer and marketer of proprietary beverages and health supplements, today announced that Founder and Chairman, Scott Landow, and CEO, John S. Wilson, have conducted another exclusive audio-taped webcast interview with 'The Green Baron Report.' This interview provides shareholders and the investment community the opportunity to learn more about the company's recent developments and its aggressive growth plans. Unrestricted access to the webcast is now available on the "Latest Webcasts" page at www.TheGreenBaron.com.

"We are always excited to have the opportunity to sit down and speak with 'The Green Baron Report' to provide an update on our growth and progress," stated John S. Wilson, CEO. "Although we make every effort to issue press releases each time we have newsworthy events, they are limiting in terms of how much content we can include. 'The Green Baron Report' is a great vehicle to get substantive information to our shareholders in great detail," continued Mr. Wilson.

"The Green Baron Report has an incredible track record for being very particular about the companies they present while filtering out those that are less desirable. That is why this is one of the only reports through which Bond communicates," concluded Mr. Wilson.
